Everyone deserves safer, contactless payments

Merchants like Amazon and Walmart have been empowering the majority of consumers to shop online for years through robust websites and mobile apps. For many shoppers, this simple concept is just now becoming a reality.

Supermarkets are well aware of how these customers can represent a significant percentage of total transactions. Online EBT allows merchants to accept payment through assistance programs. Merchants not currently signed up to accept Online EBT run the risk of losing customers to those who are.

Online EBT allows the consumer to purchase food on the approved list, from grocery stores and other merchants. If you are EBT-enabled and located in Alabama, Iowa, Nebraska, New York, Oregon or Washington State, Online EBT presents a significant opportunity.
